DARING KID IS CAPTURED BY A WOMAN

Mrs. Edward Kelly of No. 31 Hill street, Arlington, is a woman of many names, so says everyone of the hundreds who saw her capture a pickpocket in the Bulfinch square terminal of the Boston Elevated Railroad and deliver him over to Policeman Gould. The man escaped a moment later.

Mrs. Kelly and her daughter, Anabel, thirteen, were coming to Boston from Arlington. They were accompanied by John H. Gould, of No. 285 Lake street, Boston.

When Mrs. Kelly stepped out of the car as she alighted for the car, her actions were suspicious and Mrs. Kelly said, "I saw her put her hand in her pocket." "I saw her put her hand in her pocket," she said.

"You will have to wait," said Mrs. Kelly, and she rushed upstairs to the apartment. When she came down, she found a woman who was holding a small bag. "I saw her put her hand in her pocket," she said.

HILL CLIMBS TEST AUTOS TO THE LIMIT

The Chalmers-Detroit and the Buick camps captured 'the lion's share of the prizes at this meet, the results of the several events being as follows:
